Listen to the following paragraph and answer the questions.

In 2021, Miaoli County built a cross-river tunnel to help protect Taiwan's endangered leopard cats. These small wild cats often cross roads at night, putting them at risk of being hit by cars. To solve this problem, the tunnel was built to provide a safer passage. Suspended in mid-air over a river, it helps reduce roadkill incidents by allowing animals to cross safely. Cameras placed near the entrance show that leopard cats are using it, proving the tunnel is working. Other animals, such as badgers and civets, also benefit from this safe passage. Conservation groups continue to study the tunnel to improve its design. By building more tunnels and raising awareness, Taiwan hopes to protect its leopard cat population and other wildlife.
