Hey everyone! Let's chat about extension cords—those super useful but sometimes tricky electrical accessories we all use. They might seem simple, but there's definitely a right and wrong way to use them. Extension cords aren't magic wands you can just plug anything into. They have limits! Always check how much power your cord can handle. Don't connect one extension cord to another. It might seem clever, but it's actually super dangerous and can cause overheating or even start a fire. Indoor cords stay inside, and outdoor cords stay outside. Don't mix them up! And remember, extension cords are like temporary band-aids—they're not meant to be a lasting solution. Stay safe, stay smart, and don't let a simple cord become a big problem! (Jan.&Feb. Unit 7)

A 9. What is the main purpose of the talk?

(A) To provide tips on how to use extension cords safely.

(B) To advertise a new type of extension cord.

(C) To discourage people from repairing and reusing extension cords.

(D) To compare different brands of extension cords.

C 10. According to the talk, what is the best way to describe extension cords?

(A) A dangerous device that should be avoided.

(B) A lasting solution for electrical needs.

(C) A temporary solution for limited electrical access.

(D) A magical tool for any electrical problem.
